Codebook for political parties, Release 3.0, February 12, 2014

(No changes from the first two releases, apart from the way we would like to be cited)

This Codebook covers political parties with parliamentary representation (as defined) in the 29 countries included in the European Representative Democracy data archive. The main sources used come from comparative literature on political parties, official websites of the political parties and other online sources. Sources used for the data collection is presented in the Reference file available on the website (a few sources, concerning party identification and countries 1-17, are also listed at the end of this codebook). For the placement of parties into party families we have used the 12 party families used in the Comparative Parliamentary Democracy data archive. These 12 party families are presented at the end of this Codebook.
